ACADEMIC DRESS

The color of the traditional academic gown worn by community college graduates is charcoal. In 2016, as part of the 50th anniversary, Sauk Valley Community College transitioned the academic regalia to the color red. Members of the international honor society for two-year colleges, Phi-Theta Kappa, are recognized by the wearing of gold tassels and cords. Military Veterans are recognized by the wearing of red, white and blue cords.

The gown for the bachelor's degree has long, pointed sleeves open wide at the end, while the master's degree gown has a closed sleeve with a tail that hangs down from the base of the sleeve. The doctoral gown has round, bell-shaped sleeves trimmed with three velvet chevrons. Two strips of velvet trimming also run down the front of this gown. It is the only higher degree gown that has any trimming.

The hoods for all degrees are satin lined with the official color of the institution that granted the degree. The trim on the hood, by contrast, is the color distinctive to the subject matter to which the degree pertains. Members of the Sauk Valley Community College Board, as with members of the governing body of any college or university, are entitled to wear the doctoral gown. However, the hood they wear must represent the degree they actually hold.
